ISSAQUAH

Cascade Land Conservancy to hold town hall meeting

The Cascade Land Conservancy is holding its third Town Hall Meeting Tuesday, June 8, at the Pickering Barn in Issaquah at 6:30 p.m.

The meetings are intended to identify far-reaching conservation goals for the region over the next 100 years that represent the needs of landowners, the community and the region's economy. A total of four meetings were scheduled; two have already been held in Pierce and Kittitas Counties. The last one will be June 17 in Everett.

Local residents are encouraged to attend to provide input. The next step will be panel discussions, held in all four counties. The King County meeting will be held Friday, June 25, at a location to be announced.
